

Dear Sir/Madam,

As India takes center stage in the global world, Indian talent is being increasingly recognised not just in the traditional areas of science and engineering but also in arts and culture.

We, at Cell18 - one of Asia's largest production houses and a creative unit of the Network18 group, would like to encourage young, budding filmmakers with Work-in-Progress Film Festival. This festival will offer your students an exciting opportunity to showcase their short films and documentaries on a national platform and also win substantial prize money amounting to Rs.1 LAKH.

We believe that many of your students will be at the forefront of filmmaking and entertainment tomorrow. We'd like to acknowledge their talent at this stage, while their "work-is-in-progress", and offer them an opportunity to leap to success, fame and a career in great filmmaking.

Please find attached sample application forms with rules and regulations, which can be copied and distributed. Also, included are contact details, please feel free to get in touch with us for any assistance.

Regards,

Zubin Driver
